VOICES AND VALUES

The current County Commission are all members of the same political party, and while some of them profess to be Christians, they do not represent the voices of the faith community, nor do they enact policies reflecting our conservative values. As residents of District 3, some of these questions should concern you:

- Why are there frequent tax increases and bonds in our county?
- Why are crime rates still on the rise year-after-year?
- Why is our school system in disarray?
- Why are some districts excluded from affordable housing?

There are three simple answers to these questions.

First, politicians mismanage public funds.

Second, in every election cycle, our votes are taken for granted.

Third, the people's voices and values are ignored. Politicians prioritized their own personal interest – no accountability to the electorate.

Good governance needs to be restored. In a healthy liberal democracy, elected officials serve the interest of the people and not vice versa. Voters continue to demand: government accountability, family values, human dignity, protection of unborn children, and recognition of the celebrated distinctions between a man and a woman. While we recognize and respect that there are alternative voices on these issues, it is our objective to promote a conservative agenda. Hence, the current County Commission does not represent our conservative values. As a father of young children, I believe that we need representatives who are ready, willing, and able to enact policies that are friendly toward our faith and value system. However, if elected, I will engage all spectrum of the community to ensure that all residents of District 3 are heard and respected.

“If my people who are called by my name will humble themselves, and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin and heal their land” (2 Chronicles 7:14).

I am humbled to announce that I was nominated to run for the District 3 County Commissioner seat. I will be honored to represent your voices and your values on the County Commission!

In order to foster valuable changes in the county, please consider voting for me. I am a committed conservative, and I humbly ask for your support to take back District 3. I will fight, so your voices are heard, and I will fight for your values to be respected. I am asking you to inform your family, friends, and neighbors that there is a conservative candidate on the ballot for District 3. Early voting starts October 15th through October 31st; Election Day is November 3rd. God bless!
